San Juan

There are several places in the world that constitute the wonders of nature and the Bioluminescence Bay is one of them. Of the four places in the world like this, three are found in Puerto Rico. Imagine yourself traveling across the mangrove channels of Las Cabezas de San Juan natural reserve, having the open sky above you, under the blanket of the night sky with the beam of light from the restored Fajardo lighthouse, reaching out across the waters of the Atlantic, as a guide to all passing ships. Kayak tours are available of the Bioluminescent Bay. It's impressive to see how these bioluminescent organisms make the fish and kayak glow when you immerse your hands in the water. On the way there you will paddle through mangroves where you will be able to appreciate nocturnal animal life as well iguanas recharging their energies for their next activities. Don't let your day end when the sun goes down. It is truly an unforgettable adventure. Tour includes life jackets, paddles, refreshments and guides.

St. Maarten

For those who would like to enjoy shopping and a beach without driving around the island, here is the answer. Make your own way to the nearby downtown waterfront and enjoy the hospitality of a local restaurant beach facility. The bar will offer you a welcome drink and a beach chair on the sand by the water's edge. Enjoy the warm water and sunshine right in the heart of down town Philipsburg. You can purchase additional drinks and snacks at your leisure and take advantage of the shops so close by. Enjoy the shopping or stay on the beach and when you are ready to return to the ship you can take the local water taxi back to the pier. A leisurely, hassle free way to enjoy your short time in St Maarten, while having the opportunity to explore the stores and beach front. For those guests that tendered into town it is only a short walk back to the tender pier.

St. Thomas

The Island of St Thomas in the Virgin Island chain is a major stopping off point for cruise ships who come to the port near Charlotte Amalie, the major city on the island. Charlotte Amalie is where the white and pastel houses are heavily sprinkled against a background of emerald hills. Colorful slopes dock along the waterfront, and a few steps back, down alleyways lined with old Danish warehouse buildings, is a world-famous shopping center. The beauty of the island is legendary and although small, one can traverse the island easily in a car or by bus, the scenery is as diverse as the people who inhabit the island. World famous Magen's Bay is a treat for the entire family and can be easily reached by automobile, don't miss the rum milkshakes on the way! Sailing is available from the many small ports either by yourself or to hire. A ferry to several of British Virgin Islands is easily reachable near Red Hook. Many taxis traverse the island so driving transportation around the island is readily available.
